Official Communiqué from the Contamination Control Society, India

⚠ Important Warning Regarding Unauthorised Entities and Dummy Societies:

The Contamination Control Society, India (CCSI), issues this urgent public warning to all professionals, organisations, and students in the field of contamination control, cleanroom technology, and allied sciences in India.

We have observed an increase in the number of unauthorised entities and "dummy societies" claiming to represent the interests of contamination control professionals and offering training or certification programs under false pretences.

m About the Contamination Control Society, India (CCSI):

The Contamination Control Society, India (CCSI) is a registered, non-profit professional body dedicated to the development, promotion, and application of contamination control and cleanroom technology across various critical industries in India.

- Registration Details: Contamination Control Society, India, is officially registered in India under its legal name with Registration No. Under the Societies Registration Act XXI of 1860, the registration number is: Greater Mu/0000840/2023. The PAN of the Contamination Control Society is AAGAC4185P, while its GST No. is 27AAGAC4185P1Z5.
- Our Mission: CCSI serves as the principal forum for the exchange of knowledge, setting industry standards, and providing education in areas like cleanroom design, testing, operation, and environmental monitoring to ensure product quality and public safety.

Our Official Status and International Affiliation:

CCSI hereby affirms its official and exclusive status as the sole representative from India on the international stage:

- Sole Indian Member of ICCCS: The Contamination Control Society, India (CCSI) is the ONLY society from India that is a full member of the International Confederation of Contamination Control Societies (ICCCS) (www.icccs.net).
- Authorised Training and Certification: CCSI is officially affiliated with and authorised by the ICCCS to conduct its standardised training programs and issue internationally recognised certifications on its behalf from India.
- Any other entity or society in India claiming membership in ICCCS or claiming to be the authorised Indian body for ICCCS training and certification is making a false representation.

How to Verify Authenticity:

We strongly urge the public to exercise caution and perform due diligence before enrolling in any course or associating with any organisation:

Feature	Contamination Control Society, India (CCSI)	Unauthorized Entities/Dummy Societies
ICCCS Membership	Confirmed & Verified (Check the ICCCS website member list)	None
Certification Validity	Internationally recognised and backed by ICCCS	Potentially invalid or unrecognized
Official Registration	Registered in India with Reg. No. [Insert CCSI Registration Number Here]	Unregistered or registered under misleading names.

Call to Action:

To ensure you receive genuine, internationally accredited training and certification, we advise the following:

- 1. Verify Membership: Cross-check any society's claim of ICCCS membership directly on the official ICCCS website: www.iccccs.net.
- 2. Contact CCSI: If you have any doubts about a society or a training program, please get in touch with the Contamination Control Society, India, directly through our official channels.

The public in general and the industry in particular are advised to exercise caution when dealing with spurious, unregistered, unauthorised, or dummy entities or societies. Anyone dealing with such entities or societies shall do so at their own risk, without any legal, criminal, or otherwise liabilities to Contamination Control Society, its members, governing board members, and office bearers. Issued by:

For and on Behalf of The Governing Body Contamination Control Society, India (CCSI)
